

Abstract

Method for implicitly projecting communications links

The invention relates to a method for implicitly projecting communications links. The projection of the communications links is carried out in the following four steps:

- ξ interconnecting the automation objects
- ξ setting the quality of service (QoS) of the communications relationships
- ξ assigning the automation objects to equipment units
- ξ downloading the automation solution into the system

FIG 1